

THE APP

A foraging companion where you identify plants, log your finds, quiz yourself on what you've learned, and discover community-pinned spots near you — all free, no paywall.

Target User

Beginner and intermediate foragers — teens, young adults, and outdoors lovers — who want a personal field guide and a way to connect with their local foraging community.

CORE FEATURES

- 1

Plant Browser

Search plants with ID tips, edibility notes, and safety warnings.
- 2

Personal Journal

Log finds with date, location, and notes. Grows into your own field guide.
- 3

Community Map

Drop pins on foraging spots. Browse nearby finds with seasonal filters.
- 4

Plant Quiz

Identify plants from descriptions or images pulled from your own log. Active learning.
- 5

My Field Guide

A personal, growing collection of every plant you've encountered.

SCOPE & TIMELINE

YELLOW — Shippable with focus

Plant browser and journal are doable in the first ~10 hrs. Community map adds auth + DB work but Supabase makes it manageable. Quiz can be scoped to simple multiple choice. If behind, map becomes read-only pre-seeded spots.

WHAT MAKES IT DIFFERENT

Bramble's edge: The only free app purpose-built for foragers — combining a personal log, community map, quiz, and seasonal awareness in one place. No paywall, no algorithm, no noise.

Name origin: a bramble is a wild thorny plant (blackberries, raspberries). Rugged, outdoor, immediately plant-forward.

|--------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| PictureThis        | Paywall after free uses. No foraging map, no personal journal, not foraging-specific.       |
| iNaturalist / Seek | General nature app — not foraging-focused. No spot-pinning, no seasonal filter, no journal. |
| PlantNet           | ID-only. No community, no journal, no edibility/safety focus.                               |
| PlantSnap          | SnapMap shows species globally — not user-curated local foraging spots.                     |

WHY THIS PROJECT

"I found this to be the most in alignment with my current interests. Foraging is something I genuinely care about, and I think this app could serve a real purpose — not just for people like me, but for general outdoors lovers and anyone who wants an excuse to go outside."

— Noah
